I submit for perusal the Government of India Gazette of 18th May 1929 in which an amendment of Rule 86 of the Fundamental Rules (leave after date of compulsory retirement) as sanctioned by the Secretary of State has been published. The old and modified rules are copied in juxta position below:-

Old Rule.

86. Leave granted to a Government servant should in no case extend more than six months beyond the date on which the Government servant must compulsorily retire, or, if a Government servant is retained in service after that date, more than six months beyond the date on which he ceases to discharge his duties.

Note.1. -- A formal extension of service under Fundamental Rule 56 is not a necessary preliminary to the grant of leave under Fundamental Rule 86 to an officer who has attained the age of 55 as the grant of leave under the latter rule automatically carries with it the extension required (Government of India, Finance Department, Letter No. 520-C.S.R., dated 31st May 1922, in G.O.No. 573, Finance, dated 3rd July 1922).

Note 2.-- The Governor-General in Council has issued the following ruling under Fundamental Rule 86:-

The date on which a ministerial Government servant must compulsorily retire is ordinarily the date on which he attains the age of 60 years, but in the case of a ministerial servant who is required to retire between the ages of 55 and 60, the date of compulsory retirement is the date from which he is required to retire. It follows from this ruling that the restriction imposed by Fundamental Rule 86 does not operate in the case of a ministerial servant between the ages of 55 and 60 unless an order is passed requiring him to retire.

Subsidiary Rules under Rule 86.

1. A Government servant cannot under Fundamental Rule 86 be granted leave beyond the date on which he must compulsorily retire save in exceptional Modified Rule.

" 86. (a) Leave at the credit of a Government servant in his leave account shall lapse on the date on which he must compulsorily retire provided that if in sufficient time before that date has --

(1) formally applied for leave and been refused it, or

(2) ascertained in writing from the sanctioning authority that leave if applied for would not be granted --

in either case the ground of refusal being the requirements of the public service, then the Government servant may be granted, after the date of retirement the amount of leave so refused subject to a maximum of 6 months

(b) A Government servant retained in service after the date of compulsory retirement shall earn leave on average pay ~~salary~~ at the rate of 1/11th of duty performed after that date and shall be allowed to add thereto any amount of leave which could have been granted to him under clause (a) had he retired on that date. The total period which he may take on each occasion shall not exceed six months. If the Government servant has during the period of extension --

(1) formally applied for leave due and been refused it, or exceptional circumstances , e.g., if, within the period of six months preceding such date, he has been deliberately asked to give up leave due to him and to continue to work for Government when it was not convenient for him to do so. The period of leave granted under this rule should, in no case, exceed the period for which the officer has been refused leave in the interests of the public service during the six months referred to above.

2. Leave under Fundamental Rule 86 can be granted only by an officer who is empowered under Fundamental Rule 56 and the rules subsidiary thereto to sanction extension of service after the age of 55 years.

for refusal being the requirements of the public service, then the said Government servant may be granted, when his duties finally cease, and preparatory to retirement, the amount of leave so refused up to a maximum of 6 months."

In the Government Order of 11th October 1926 article 150 A of the M.S.R. was revised on the basis of the Fundamental Rule 86 and the Madras Subsidiary Rule thereunder, the provision in the M.S.R. authorising Heads of Departments to sanction leave up to two months to non-gazetted officers after superannuation being retained. The present rule in regard to the grant of leave to an officer after his 55th year is as follows:-

" Leave granted to a Government servant should in no case extend more than six months beyond the date on which he attains his 55th birthday, or if a Government servant is retained in service after that date, more than six months beyond the date on which he ceases to discharge his duties.

A Leave under this section can be allowed only in exceptional circumstances and any leave so granted must be of a kind which is due and not in excess of the amount at credit.

Note.-- Leave up to two months in the aggregate during an extension of service may be sanctioned by the Heads of Departments specified in Appendix R to Non-Gazetted Officers without reference to Government. In all other cases, previous sanction of Government is necessary for the grant of leave to an officer after attaining the age of superannuation."

Vide A

Clause (2) of this rule provides for the

the grant of leave only in exceptional circumstances. This expression, though not quite definite, was adopted after a good deal of discussion. The exceptional circumstance contemplated in the rule is limited to cases where leave due has been deferred in the public interest and this interpretation is being enforced in actual practice. Representations have, however, been made for the grant of leave in cases where such exceptional circumstance, i.e., refusal of leave due in the public interest prior to superannuation, has not arisen. Doubts have also been entertained as regards the amount of leave that may be given to an officer after the age of superannuation and during his extension in service

3 The new rule of the Government of India clarifies the position in both these respects. In clause (a) it is definitely stated that all leave at credit will lapse on the date of compulsory retirement and that leave after the date of retirement subject to a maximum of six months will be admissible only when leave applied for previously has been formally or constructively refused. Clause (b) provides for cases of earning leave afresh by an officer retained in service after the date of compulsory retirement and limits the grant of such leave including that admissible under clause (a) to six months on each occasion.

4 I think we may adopt the Government of India revised rule in toto in lieu of clauses (1) and (2) of article 150 A. The note to this this article which confers on Heads of Departments the power of granting leave up to two months in the aggregate during the extension of service may, however, be retained.

5 If my proposal is accepted, the present article 150 A. in the M.S.R. may be substituted by the following:-

New Rule

(a) All leave at the credit of a Government servant shall lapse on the date on which he attain his 55th ~~xxxx~~ birthday provided that if in sufficient time before that date he has --

(1) formally applied for leave and been refused it, or

(2) ascertained in writing from the sanctioning authority that leave, if ~~would~~ applied for, would not be granted --

in either case the ground of refusal being the requirements of the public service, then the Government servant may be granted, after the date of retirement, the amount of leave so refused subject to a maximum of six months.

(b) A Government servant retained in service after the age of superannuation shall earn leave on full average salary at the rate of 1/11th of duty, after that date and shall be allowed to add thereto any amount of leave which could have been granted to him under clause (a) had he retire on that date. The total period which he may take on each occasion shall not exceed six months.

6 If the Government servant has during the

the period of extension formally applied for leave due and been refused it or ascertained in writing from the sanctioning authority that leave, if applied for, would not be granted, in either case, the ground for refusal being the requirements of the public service then the said Government servant may be granted, when his duties finally cease, and preparatory to retirement the amount of leave so refused up to a maximum of six months.

(Present note to be retained.)

Leave up to two months in the aggregate during an extension of service may be sanctioned by the Heads of Departments specified in Appendix R & Orders to Non-Gazetted Officers without reference to Government. In all other cases previous sanction of Government is necessary for the grant of leave to an officer after attaining the age of superannuation. "

21 I have re-examined the case.

The position under the proposed arrangement will be thus.

(1) All leave except that which has been refused will taken as the date of superannuation.

(2) After superannuation any leave on full average salary will be earned by a Govt. Servant in whatever dept he may be, Vacation or non-Vacation dept. - No other kind of leave will become admissible.

(3) The maximum period of leave that can be given after superannuation as above is 6 months when leave has been previously refused.

(4) ~~(4)~~. refused is 6 months.

(4) If the leave in hand all leave had lapsed at Superannuation, the leave allowance admissible during fresh leave earned is based on full average salary.

(5) If privilege leave (with pay in full or half average salary) had been refused before superannuation, the said leave would remain to the credit of the officer after superannuation, subject to the limitation that such leave plus the leave ~~earned~~ lapsed on full average salary earned shall be limited to 6 months for lump average of at- an time.

(6) The allowance during leave which has not been allowed to lapse will be regulated on the same basis as that applicable had the leave been granted before supernumeration.

(7) There is one other point which requires mention - And that is this - In regard to privilege leave, is the leave allowance to be calculated on the salary admissible at the time ~~the leave was~~ of supernumeration or ~~at~~ on that of the office on which the Govt. servant has a lien at the time of actually taking leave? I think the existing practice of calculating the leave allowance due at the time of proceeding on leave should be followed. The new rule will affect only the leave to be earned after supernumeration and will limit the grant of leave at one time to six months inclusive of such leave and the leave ~~earned~~ remaining at credit before supernumeration on the ground of ~~absence~~ refusal to which it is. The character of the latter will be unaffected - In the light of this explanation the number) single ~~leave~~ type (O.F.N) may be approved by us

Final Note by the First Member of Council.

Subject:—

Modification of Article 150 A of the Mysore Service Regulations in regard to the grant of leave to an officer after his 55th year.

In Government Order No. Fl. 1-60/S. & A. 11-26 dated 11th October 1926 Article 150 A of the Mysore Service Regulations was revised on the basis of the Government of India Fundamental Rule 86 and the Madras Subsidiary rule thereunder. The substantive part of the present rule in Mysore in regard to the grant of leave to a superannuated officer is as follows:

> "Leave granted to a Government servant should in no case extend more than six months beyond the date on which he attain his 55th birthday, or if a Government servant is retained in service after that date, more than six months beyond the date on which he ceases to discharge his duties."
> "Leave under this section can be allowed only in exceptional circumstances and any leave so granted must be of a kind which is due and not in excess of the amount at credit."

2. Clause (2) of this Rule provides for the grant of leave only in "exceptional circumstances", and the grant of leave to an officer after 55 years of age, preparatory to retirement, is ordinarily limited to cases where leave due has been deferred in the public interests.

3. Rule 86 of the Fundamental Rules has recently been amended by the Government of India and the new rule published in the Government of India Gazette of 18th May 1929 is an improvement in two respects. In clause (a) of the amended rule it is definitely stated that all leave at credit will lapse on the date of compulsory retirement and that leave after the said date, subject to a maximum of six months, will be admissible only when leave applied for previously has been formally or constructively refused. Clause (b) provides for cases of earning leave on average pay afresh by an officer retained in service, after the date of compulsory retirement at the rate of 1/11th of duty performed performed after that date and limits the grant of such leave including that admissible under clause (a) to six months on each occasion.

4. It is proposed to adopt the Government of India revised rules, retaining, however, the provision in the existing note to the Article 150 A., Mysore Service Regulations, authorising Heads of Departments and Deputy Commissioners to sanction, without reference to Government, leave to non-gazetted officers after superannuation up to two months. In all other cases, previous sanction of Government is necessary for the grant of leave to an officer attaining the age of superannuation.

5. There is no provision in our Regulations for grant of leave allowances calculated on pay drawn during the last twelve months-called 'average pay' under the British Indian Rules-and it is therefore proposed to substitute 'average salary' - i.e., the average calculated on three years' pay - for 'average pay', following the arrangement in force in regard to furlough leave. The proposed rule, amended as above, will be as follows:-

(a) All leave at the credit of a Government servant shall lapse on the date on which he attains his 55th birthday, provided that if in sufficient time before that date he has -

(1) formally applied for leave and been refused it, or (2) ascertained in writing from the sanctioning authority that leave, if applied for, would not be granted -

in either case, the ground of refusal being the requirements of the public service, then the Government servant may be granted, after the date of retirement, the amount of leave so refused subject to a maximum of six months.

(b) A Government servant retained in service after the age of superannuation shall earn leave on full average salary at the rate of 1/11th of duty, after that date and shall be allowed to add thereto any amount of leave which could have been granted to him under clause (a) had he retired retired on that date. The total period which he may take on each occasion shall not exceed six months.

If the Government servant has, during the period of extension, formally applied for leave due and been refused it or ascertained in writing from the sanctioning authority that leave, if applied for, would not be granted, in either case, the ground for refusal being the requirements of the public service, then the said Government servant may be granted when his duties finally cease and preparatory to retirement, the amount of leave so refused up to a maximum of six months.

(Present Note to be retained.)

Note.- Leave up to two months in the aggregate during an extension of service may be sanctioned by the Heads of Departments specified in Appendix R and Deputy Commissioners to non-gazetted officers without reference to Government. In all other cases, previous sanction of Government is necessary for the grant of leave to an officer after attaining the age of superannuation.

6. The Dewan and other Members of Council have agreed to this proposal and I solicit His Highness' gracious sanction to it.

31 The date from which the new rule shd come into effect has to be settled.

32 It seems desirable that some time shd be allowed to officials on the verge of superannuation to enable extension of service to avail themselves, if they choose, of the privileges concession permissible under the existing Art. article, as under the new rule all have to retire normally at completed years of age.

33 I have suggested 1st Oct. 29 as the date from which the new rule shd have effect.
